

ABSTRACT

An object of the present invention is to provide a novel cholesterol detection reagent comprising a substance which can specifically binds to cholesterol to detect it, and a method for detecting cholesterol using the reagent. The present invention provides a cholesterol detection reagent comprising a polyethylene glycol cholesteryl ether which may be labeled.